

Event Title: Future Memory and the Construction of a Decolonial Digital Archive

Event Description: This panel focuses on the challenges, methodologies, and drives involved in the creation of a decolonial archive of Puerto Rican literature. It addresses how interviewing writers, translating, working with institutions, and digitizing materials can create a lasting open-access source during a period in which the archipelago's educational resources are being privatized and the gap between institutional access and inter-community literary production is widening in both archipiélago and diáspora.
