Event Description

Split/Lip Press is celebrating its 10th anniversary in 2024! For this reading, five authors from our catalog will read from their books. Split/Lip Press is proud to publish innovative, boundary-breaking prose; we've helped launch the careers of some of the most exciting prose writers of the last decade.

Event Agenda

Our moderator will welcome attendees and share a short description of Split/Lip's mission. Each of the five participants (including the moderator) will introduce themselves, then read for ten minutes. The remaining time will be left for a Q&A about both the content of the readings and the authors' experience publishing with Split/Lip Press.

Event Participants

Mila Jaroniec is the author of Plastic Vodka Bottle Sleepover and the editor of Black Lipstick. She teaches at Writing Co-Lab and GrubStreet.

Devon Capizzi is a writer from Pennsylvania. Their debut collection of stories, My Share of the Body, was published by Split/Lip Press (December 2021). Their work has been supported by the Bread Loaf Writer’s Conference, the Tin House Workshop, and a fellowship from Emerson College.
Anurag Andra is a writer based in Arlington, VA. He is the author of Submarine (Split/Lip Press, 2022). His short fiction has been featured in Ninth Letter, Necessary Fiction, Atticus Review, and elsewhere. His work explores themes of family, identity, coming-of-age, mental health, and loss.

Jillian Danback-McGhan is an author, Navy veteran, former child actor, and the winner of the 2020 Col. Darron L. Wright Memorial Writing Awards. Midwatch, her debut collection of short fiction, will be published in Spring 2024. She lives in Annapolis, MD with her family.
